No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!

Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 2, 1863.

WHICH SHALL BE REDEEMED—THE NATION OR THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.—The Philadelphia North American, in a long article upon this subject, says that the "Democrats everywhere as a party oppose and denounce the Conscription Act, and raise the cry of 'no more men for this unholy war.' Now, let us suppose that Democrats could triumph everywhere in the North, and elect State Governments to suit them, and that they were to carry out their policy of refusing men to carry on the war. Of course the rebels would recover all they had lost, and the United States Government, without men to oppose them, would be forced to succumb. This is one way of restoring the Democratic party to power, but not the one which finds favor with the shrewd thinkers who guide the course of that organization in the North. They have another plan, which is not yet well defined in some of its parts, but which looks to an armistice, reconstruction by means of a National Convention under a new Constitution, the repeal of the Confiscation Act, the recall of the Emancipation Proclamation, and the restoration of slavery to prosperity and power. Any such reconstruction, it must be evident, would prove a failure, and in the end, perhaps, the war would be resumed with more bitterness than ever. Were it possible that such a scheme could succeed, the nation would cease to be a free republic and sink into an oligarchy.

"These devices have for their sole object, not the rescue of slavery from its impending fate, but the restoration of the Democratic party to power at any cost whatever. The same men who are willing to sink the country in this degradation would as soon abandon slavery if they could see their way to power by that means. But they do not see such a way, because their ancient prejudices have crazed their wits altogether upon the subject of abolition, and they think that the only path to power again is by the reiteration of the old hue and cry against that raw head and bloody bones of the ignorant and unprincipled. Moreover, their party cannot make a distinct rally against the Government, because the Administration has been so brilliantly successful, and has so completely demonstrated its unconditional Unionism, that the Democratic leaders have nothing there they can safely antagonize. There is an alternative, as we have above stated, and it is now offered to the public—shall we redeem the nation, or shall we redeem the Democratic party? Perhaps we may do both; but it is extremely doubtful. Certainly it is only practicable to do so in one way. By administering an overwhelming defeat to the Democrats this fall in the North, we may redeem both their party and the nation; but the better plan would be for all independent citizens to agree upon the necessity of breaking up an organization that has been so fruitful of evil all over the country. The success of the Union measures and policy opens a future to the country full of domestic tranquility and prosperity; that of the Democratic party affords but a vista of renewed sectional strife, of social degradation, of repeated civil wars, of State animosities and prolonged turbulence. The Union party has shown by the past two years of glorious war that it can redeem the nation in a way likely to insure it against future trouble. Shall it be permitted to do so—or shall we sacrifice this prospect that the Democratic party may be preserved?"

REPENTING OF OR DENYING HIS INIQUITY.—Gov. Seymour was lately waited upon by a committee appointed by a meeting of German conscripts in New York, who desired to know if he meant to redeem his pledge that no man should be taken from the State before the Courts should have an opportunity to decide whether the Conscription Bill was constitutional or not. He denied that he had ever made such pledge, and, on the whole, the committee were given to understand that the best thing they could do, under the circumstances, would be to go home and counsel their friends to abstain from everything that looked like resistance to the law as it stood. The implicity of the Governor has greatly incensed his "friends."

MILITARY.—Col. Maury, of the Oregon Cavalry, has been ordered to establish his headquarters at Fort Dalles, and with one company of troops will winter there.

Dr. Watkins, now stationed at Fort Walla Walla, has been ordered to Fort Dalles, where he will relieve Dr. Steele, now acting Surgeon at that post.

Capt. Caldwell's company of Oregon Cavalry, which has been encamped for some time on Five Mile creek, five miles from the Dalles, has been ordered to Fort Vancouver, and will come down to-day.

MODEL RESOLUTIONS.—At a political meeting of the Union men of Stetson, Maine, held recently, the following resolutions, proposed by Lewis Baker, were unanimously adopted:

1. That this rebellion is unconstitutional.
2. That it is constitutional to put it down.
3. That Lincoln is putting it down.
4. That we will support him while about it.
5. That Cony goes for the right.
6. That we go for Cony.

Cony was accordingly elected by a big majority.

BROKE DOWN.—We are informed by Mr. West, a messenger of Wells, Fargo & Co., that the steamer Spray burst her escape pipe while on her way from Celilo to Wallula, last Tuesday, which obliged her to lay by until the arrival of the Nez Perce Chief, which came to her assistance and took her passengers and freight on to their destination.

ABBOTT'S HISTORY OF THE REBELLION.—During all great public commotions, and especially such as concern the welfare of each individual, an intense and anxious interest is felt by all, to obtain correct information of the causes, the progress, and the important events occurring, connected with them. This is natural and most commendable; it is the highest proof of popular intelligence. The terrible war now raging like a whirlwind in our land—which has already cost life, counted by hundreds of thousands, treasure, estimated by hundreds of millions, and has sent blasting and mildew over vast sections of the nation—is full of terrible interest to every man, woman and child. Its history concerns all, and if there is any reliable chronicle of its rise and progress, such a work ought to be read by every one who cares about the great strife for the salvation of the institutions of American freedom. Abbott's History of the War is exactly such a record. Beginning with the causes, early and recent, it fairly and faithfully portrays each event of its course. Its author, with the pen of a ready writer, unsurpassed in skill and beauty of diction, admirably delineates every phase of motive, policy and action. He sketches every battle field with the genius of an artist; he tells the world with concise brevity and magic power just what it wants to know, and makes a clear and perfect picture of the war. The book, therefore, ought to be in the hands of every family in the land, so that the rising generation especially may know how much the preservation of our liberty has cost, and thus be induced and prepared forever to defend it.

The first volume has already been published and is in the hands, so far as Oregon is concerned, of Mr. A. B. Butler, the agent for this State, who is ready to distribute it. It is finely illustrated with numerous steel engravings, and beside its intrinsic value, is an elegant ornament to the library. Its cost is reasonable,—indeed, it is trifling, when its real, practical worth is considered. We hope every parent will take it home, and we can fully assure all our citizens that its purchase will never be regretted by those who feel any interest whatever in the life of the nation, and the glorious achievements of our patriotic army and navy.

THE COLORED TROOPS IN THE ASSAULT ON FORT WAGNER.—We take the following, in relation to the behavior of the 54th Massachusetts (colored) regiment, in that fatal but desperate assault on Fort Wagner, from the New York Evening Post:

Fresh honors crown the colored troops. So fully had their character for bravery and reliance been established, that in the recent assault upon Fort Wagner the 54th Massachusetts were allowed to lead our veteran troops, nor did they (to their honor be it said) refuse either the lead or their support.

On forming them into line, General Strong, who had by his soldierly and kind-bearing toward them secured their confidence, raising his stentorian voice, cried out, "Is there a man here who thinks himself unable to sleep in that fort to-night?" The earth rang with the thunder of their "No!" Turning to the color bearer, he said, "Is there any man here to take his place if this brave color bearer should fall?" With lifting of hands, and leaping, and almost yelling, all through the enthusiastic ranks, came the response, "Yes! Yes!"

From General Strong himself, as he lay in the hospital four days afterward, suffering from his ghastly wound, I learned that these men had "had no sleep for three nights, no food since morning, and had marched several miles." Under cover of darkness they stormed the fort, facing a stream of fire, faltering not till their ranks were broken by shot and shell, and in all those severe tests, which would have tried even veteran troops, "they fully met my expectations," said the General, "for many of them were killed, wounded or captured on the walls of the fort. No man broke till fired upon."

The 6th Connecticut, who had honored themselves at Jacksonville co-operating with colored troops, supported the 54th in the assault. Several of the officers lying in the hospital, confirm the testimony of General Strong. The regiment went in 700 strong, and brought off only 330 sound men. Of 17 officers, only three came out unhurt. The number of killed I have not learned. About 200 are now lying in our hospitals. Some who had prophesied that the colored man would not stand fire, but had finally yielded in his favor, still contend that ghastly wounds and sufferings, with slaughter and death of comrades, would quash all their love of freedom and soldiering, and silence the boasts of their friends.

On the second and fourth days after the fight I passed through nearly all the wards of the hospital. On the second day a very large proportion of their wounds had not been dressed, and of course they were very painful. Some lay with shattered legs or arms, or both; others with limbs amputated. Rebel bullets, grape, shells and bayonets have made sad havoc. Standing amidst a large number, I said: "Well, boys, this was not a part of the programme, was it?" "Oh, yes, indeed, we expected to take all that comes," said some. Others said, "Thank God, we went in to live or die."

If out of it, and home, how many would enlist again? With brightened faces and some raising of even wounded arms or hands, all said, "Oh, never give it up, till the last Rebel be dead," or "the last brother breaks his chains," or, "if all the people get their freedom, we can afford to die."

Frank Myers, from Ohio, whose arm was badly shattered by a shell, said: "Oh, I thank God so much for the privilege; I went in to live or die as he please." He stood right under the uplifted sword of their brave Colonel Shaw, on the very top of the parapet, as he cried, "rush on, rush on, boys!" and then suddenly fell, quickly followed by Myers himself.

No man can pass among these sufferers, so patient, so cheerful, hear them express their desire for a speedy recovery, first and only, that they may (the almost universal expression) "try it over again;" also their firm conviction that they are soldiers for Jesus, to help on his war of freedom for all the oppressed, and not be inspired with deepest abhorrence of slavery and an unquenchable desire for the freedom of their race. I have seen much to admire in them, as servants, laborers in the field; as soldiers, in camp, on the battle-field, but never so much in all these relations that is so truly manly, heroic and sublime as exhibited in the furnace fires of war.

"What is the meaning of a backbiter?" asked a clergyman at a Sunday School examination. This was a puzzler. It went down the class until it came to a simple urchin, who said, "Perhaps it be a flea."

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to September 26.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sept. 25th.—The Richmond Whig of the 23d claims a victory in northern Georgia for Bragg, and says, "We suppress exultation at the result of the battle on account of what yet remains to be done, and the possibility of losing all that has been gained by a failure to complete the work. Situated as Rosecrans is, victory that does not disperse and capture his whole army, is a lost opportunity. If he is permitted to hold Chattanooga, then our victory will be without profit, and we have only to mourn that so many brave men have died in vain. Rosecrans must not only be beaten in battle, but must be despoiled or driven from East Tennessee; otherwise, the battle had as well not have been fought. If this stronghold is not wrenched from him now it will hardly be done hereafter. If he holds it, he holds a point from which he may at any moment strike a blow at the very vitals of the Confederacy. He holds a region pestilent with disaffection, which needs only the presence of a Yankee army to ripen into full blown treason. He holds a country that must furnish wheat for our army, nitre for our powder mills, and iron for many of our manufacturing establishments. Possession of that country is of indispensable necessity to us. It is a prize for which we will contend until we have won it. We can but rejoice with fear and trembling over what has been done, and should our army win it, it will be the best achievement of the war."

NEW YORK, Sept. 26th.—A special from Washington to the Times says it now appears that all three of Rosecrans' grand divisions were engaged in the late battles, two of which were driven back a considerable distance. Rosecrans, in his dispatches, imputes the loss of the battle to disobedience of orders by Gen. McCook, who failed to occupy an important position assigned him. Had he done so, Rosecrans' opinion is that the battle would have resulted in a splendid Union victory. By extending his forces too much the rebels were enabled to penetrate our lines.

There is great anxiety in the army for the safety of Burnside. In order to reinforce Rosecrans the only safe course for him would be to cross the Tennessee river and mountains, or penetrate to some of the gaps and move down behind the mountains. The opinion of military men seems to be that if he attempts to move down on this side of the river he will run a great risk of being cut off.

A Washington special to the Tribune says of the battle at Chattanooga that in the course of Thursday, the 17th, there were unmistakable indications that the rebels had discovered the weak points in our position and were massing their forces in front of our centre and left, with the manifest purpose of crushing these points of our lines or going between them and Chattanooga. On Friday morning a portion of our expected reinforcements, consisting of the brigades of the reserve corps under Cols. McCook and Mitchell, appeared and were immediately ordered to make a reconnoissance towards the right to develope the intentions of the rebels in that quarter. They came on the advance of Longstreet's corps, pushed it back some distance, took a number of prisoners and established the anticipated concentration of the enemy in front of our left. All day Friday our cavalry were covering our front and skirmishing with different bodies of rebels. On Friday night the divisions of Brandon and Baird, together with Johnson and McCook's corps moved from the rear of the left of Crittenden's corps. They were in their new position at daybreak. Two other divisions of McCook's corps, under Davis and Sheridan were to move into the position abandoned by Thomas' corps, but they had not time to assume it fully before the commencement of the action.

The next morning, shortly before 11 o'clock, the storm that had been brewing on the rebel side, burst forth in the expected direction. At that time a long mass of rebel infantry was seen advancing on Brandon's division on the extreme left. It first came upon the second brigade, under command of Col. Croxton, and soon forced it back, in spite of its determined resistance. Two other brigades of the division at once came to its assistance, and succeeded in checking the advance of the rebels and driving them back, but their column being largely reinforced, they advanced again with wild yells. So powerful was this assault, that it pushed Brandon back to and beyond his position in the line, and thus uncovered the left of Brandon's division; making prompt use of their advantage, the rebels changed their course to the left, and speedily enveloped Scribner and King's divisions (the latter were regulars); they were almost surrounded, but managed to disentangle themselves, after heavy loss. The rebel mass next came upon Johnson's division, and drove it back upon Reynolds', which also became speedily involved in the struggle. The resistance of these divisions, and the sweeping fire of some batteries posted under the supervision of Rosecrans, arrested the rebel advance on the divisions of Brandon and Davis, until Thomas ordered a general advance of the right, and upon the tide of battle was briefly turned in our favor. Our line advanced, halting only to scatter the enemy with musketry. Several times the retreating line of the latter, stopped and tried to retain their ground, but failed. The corps of Polk and Hill, formerly Hardie's, moved to a most determined and well executed attack on Palmer and Van Cleave's divisions in the centre. Its object was to relieve the defeated rebel right. Palmer and Van Cleve soon found themselves overpowered and their divisions breaking. Their complete rout was imminent, when Davis' division came to their support on Van Cleave's right. This timely reinforcement at first had the effect of checking the enemy and restoring our lines, but the rebel attack was speedily resumed with greater numbers, and our centre was again compelled to yield; Davis was forced to the right and Van Cleave to the left, and the rebels advanced through the opening thus made through our line, threatening to take our centre and right by their flanks, as they had done our left before. At this critical juncture Sheridan's division appeared and was at once thrown upon the enemy. It stood its ground gallantly, but being exposed to a destructive flank fire, was also compelled to fall back. Fortunately the divisions of Wood and Negley, that had been early withdrawn from Gordon's mills when the rebel attack on our left threatened to be successful, now came to the rescue. After a brief contest the rebels found themselves at last matched, and began to give way in their turn. Reynolds, also, having been sent to the assistance of the centre, after the repulse by the rebel right, an advance was ordered and our original position regained about sundown. About dark the rebels made another demonstration with heavy artillery and musketry fire, on our centre, but receiving a lively response, they soon abandoned the last effort of the day. Thus ended the battle of the nineteenth.

WASHINGTON, September 26.—Gen. Hooker has been assigned an important command in the field, where his brilliant fighting qualities will find ample scope.

THE GREEK FIRE AT CHARLESTON.—The little Gascon Beauregard seems terribly troubled by the intractable character of General Gillmore. Gilmore will not hit easy, and will not allow the little Toutant enough breathing time. Toutant says that Gilmore is raining Greek fire upon the Sodom and Gomorrah of the rebellion, and the bewildered rebel engineer seems to hate Gilmore's fire as heartily as the cities of the plain did that fire of retribution which Divine justice rained upon them. Gilmore is not using Greek fire; it is Union fire that is consuming the hotbed of the rebellion. The Greek fire was first used by the Greek architect who escaped from the Mohammedans when they were assailing Constantinople. He carried his invention with him and committed great havoc upon the enemy with his fire. It was in use down to the thirteenth century, but its composition is unknown. Men of science differ widely in their suppositions respecting its ingredients. Some have conjectured that naptha was the principal substance, but naptha cannot be made to produce the effects that belonged to the Greek fire. It was used in firing cannon, and naptha cannot be used in that way. About forty years ago it was announced in the Magazine of Discoveries that the recipe for making Greek fire had been found in an old Latin manuscript, but since that we have heard nothing more of it. Chemistry has now far more potent ingredients for making terrible fiery substances than were known to the Greeks. But how barbarous it is to use these materials upon a set of beings who have baggled at nothing that they could use in the destruction of the Union.—They used incendiary balls at Vicksburg, which exploded after entering the body. Gen. Grant found a number of these balls, made by the English, among the fruits of his victory. The friends, aiders and abettors of Quantrell should never speak of civilized warfare.—Louisville Journal.

GETTING HIS JUST DESERTS.—Ex-President Buchanan and suite, en route from Bedford Springs to Wheatland, passed through Harrisburg lately. After Mr. Buchanan had changed cars, and a few minutes before the train started, a crowd was collected in front of the car he occupied, gazing with mute curiosity at the infirm old man, whose unsteady look wandered from object to object as if he hesitated to meet the gaze of the citizens and the soldiers present upon the occasion. Just then a soldier who had lost an arm began to shake the stump in the face of the O.P.F., exclaiming fiercely, "I am indebted to you for this," (pointing to the maimed arm,) "and the devil will liquidate the debt when he gets you!" At this point the whistle of the locomotive screamed the signal of departure, and Buchanan, with the rebuke of the wounded soldier blanching on his already pale and withered cheek, was soon lost in the distance with the train. But, what an existence! What a career for an American President!

OM BOISE.—Mr. Dan. P. Macarter, just from Boise, furnishes us much valuable rmation. At present the mines are un ctive for want of water. In the neigh d of Bannock, they have but four or sluice heads on Moore's creek, and three four on Elk creek. These sluice heads ex st about all the water now running in the ms. In addition, there is a number of ngs which are used by persons working rockers, who with precarious and limited lies of water, manage to take out large ntities of dust. On Caddy's Gulch, a rich ing locality, there are two sluice heads, water for which is drawn from Elk creek. such an utter dearth of water, it is not ge that business in the mines is dull. what source water is to be drawn, has yet been decided. In the early Spring Summer the numerous streams that d the Boise Basin will furnish abundant lies of the aqueous elements, but as the n advances these dry up, and leave the rs no other alternative but to suspend ations. Surveys demonstrate that the tte, a large stream of water, can be d into the Baisin and made to furnish ndant water for mining purposes. But is an enterprise that requires capital, and no one has shown the courage to take of it and put it through. Despite, how all these drawbacks, the miners who at work are taking out fabulous amounts gold, and Boise is daily demonstrating its m to be regarded as the richest auriferous on on the Pacific coast.—Mountaineer.

From the Mountaineer we have the follow items:

BOISE CITY.—A town with this name has ntly been laid out near the fort, and is wing rapidly. It is the point of supply the Feather River, Owybee, and South ise mines, and these, together with the de from the military post, render Boise y a thriving place.

LEASED.—Tichenal, the man charged the murder of McDaniel, has been re ed on bail, to answer the charge at the next of the Circuit Court. The accused went n on yesterday's boat to join his family Salem.

RICH DIGGINGS.—The newly discovered ngs on Snake River, near Fort Hall, e to be very rich. The mines are dis from Bannock 250 miles, following a easterly course. A large number of rs have already left for the new diggings, more are preparing to follow.

MESSRS. A. L. SCOVILL & CO.—In reply to inquiries as to the efficacy of your DR. BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA, justice requires of me to state that, having at times been attacked by a violent contraction of the muscles of the legs, I experienced immediate relief by taking at each time a swallow of the Pain Panacea direct from the bottle. It is rather a tough remedy, but I have always found the smarting of the Panacea a very happy exchange for the excruciating pains attending cramps in the limbs.

☞ In Every Age of the World, the professions have been slow to admit the value of new discoveries, or the expediency of adopting them in practice. It is not to the legal profession that we look for reforms in jurisprudence, neither do we find the advocates of medical reform among physicians. Each deprecates whatever is found to innovate upon received opinions and established usage. Hence the opposition which medical men too often exhibit to the use of private remedies, whatever their acknowledged value, or great efficiency in the cure of disease. No medicine has ever done more for the relief of human suffering than DR. OSGOOD'S INDIA CHOLAGOGUE. The certainty with which it cures Fever and Ague, and eradicates bile from the system is acknowledged by all. Do you prefer a speedy and effectual cure to a regular and scientific run of disease? Try the Cholagogue, and the object is accomplished. Then tell your suffering neighbor what it has done for you, that it may do the same for him.

THE END OF A BRAGGART.—The New York Evening Post of August 26th, in speaking of Major-General P. G. T. Beauregard, says that "his short race is run; and the wreck of his fame remains a warning to other boasters and Bobadils. He was a great military engineer; he spent four months in the safe and easy task of investing a fort whose garrison was forbidden to interfere with his operations. He multiplied batteries against the half-starved handful of men who looked on from the ramparts of the fort, but were ordered not to fire a gun. In this bloodless enterprise he showed himself the bravest of the brave. Knowing of Major Anderson's orders against firing, Beauregard was ever in front of his works. It is believed, however, that when Anderson sent him word not to approach nearer, under threat of a thirty-two pound shot, he showed himself as prudent as he had been venturesome before. However that may be, this great engineer was at last ready. His batteries were built, his guns placed, his men drilled, his ammunition and other supplies collected, without opposition from Major Anderson. When he was ready he stopped the supplies of Sumter and sent a summons to surrender. Its commander had no orders to that effect—but he replied that in three days his supplies would be exhausted, and at the end of that time he would have to give up the place. Here was Beauregard's great opportunity, and he knew how to use it. He might have waited three days and quietly received Major Anderson's sword; but where then would have been the glory? What then would all his immense preparations have gained for him? The great engineer knew a trick worth a dozen of that. He had counted the chances—he knew that the garrison of Sumter was but fifty-six men strong. He knew that for every gun Anderson could fire he had ten; for every man of Anderson's he had a hundred. He refused to wait, but heroically opened fire upon Fort Sumter, and did not cease until his shells had set the place on fire, and forced the starving garrison to surrender. For this heroic act, the like of which the world has probably never saw, he was rewarded with a major-generalship and no end of praise. For a while he was believed by the rebels to be the greatest general of any age. Napoleon was a mere tyro to Beauregard, who was regarded as Marlborough, Wellington and Prince Eugene rolled into one. It was confidently believed that at the sound of his name whole armies of Yankees would run away in terror; while a rebel army, led by him, would not fail to march triumphantly from one end of the American continent to the other—would breakfast in Philadelphia, dine in New York and sleep under the shadow of Bunker Hill monument, where the distinguished Toombs intended at one time to call the roll of his slaves.

Well, time brings its revenges. Beauregard took Sumter, and fate decreed that he in turn should defend it. He has had two years and more to complete the works around Charleston; he has been undisturbed all that time. This great engineer has been busily at work, and the world has been assured by his friends that Charleston was impregnable—that the cursed Yankees could never set their feet within gunshot of it, and that Sumter was prepared to repulse all assaults. One day comes along a plain-Yankee engineer—not a celebrated, blustering, vain-glorious braggart, but a quiet gentleman, a man of few words, who never tells the world beforehand what wonders he is going to perform. General Gillmore sets himself down before Fort Sumter; he drives in the outposts of his opponent; he gains a commanding position on Morris Island before the astonished Beauregard is awake to what is going on; he constructs battery after battery in the teeth of all his opponent's efforts; and one day he opens on Fort Sumter and knocks it down—and with it he knocks down the short-lived fame of the great engineer Beauregard!

This wretched braggart has now lost the last pretension he could make to ability in his profession. He has been tried in every branch of it. When he commanded in the Virginia valley he thought a battle could be gained by bold lying, and issued his infamous order telling the rebels that our armies had hoisted a banner on which were inscribed the words "Beauty and Booty." At Bull Run his incapacity had lost the rebels the day, when the impetuous charge of Jackson and Ewell, who came up with reinforcements, turned the tide against us. At Shiloh Beauregard, commanding after the death of Sydney Johnson, lost a battle in which all the advantages were on his side, and skulked off in disgrace. And now, before Charleston, he is out-generaled by a Yankee engineer who has never announced himself as a tremendous and irresistible commander, but who has shown to the world the difference between skill and mere boasting, between genius and vain glory, between a true gentleman and an empty braggart. Poor Beauregard! He went up like a rocket, and he has come down like a stick. Such is the usual fate of cheats and blusterers."

CANES FOR THE LADIES.—The Empress has again appeared with a long walking-stick, and now the fashion is fixed. Every lady at a watering place must "wear a cane;" and the shop windows of Paris are beginning to display them, with "prices to suit customers." Some are very cheap and homely; others elegant and costly. The length of the stick depends on the height of the lady, as they are recommended to come about up to the lady's shoulder. They are carried for support, for protection and for distinction—that is, the ladies like to have "something in their hands to play with," and especially at the seaside, where they are always breaking the points of their parasols, by poking at pebbles and things. And then, why should not a woman carry a cane as well as a man? Is she not the weaker vessel?—Paris Correspondence, 4th August.

A CANDID URCHIN.—"What did your mother say, my little man? Did you give her my card?" asked an inexperienced young gentleman of a little boy whose mother had given him an invitation to call upon her, and whose street door was accordingly opened to his untimely summons by the urchin.

"Yes, sir," said the urchin, quite innocently, "and mother said if you were not a natural born fool, you wouldn't come on Monday mornin', a time when everybody was washin'!"

At this juncture mamma, with a sweet smile of welcome, made her appearance at the end of the hall, when, to her surprise, Mr. Verisopht, the visitor, bolted.

"What in the world does the man mean?" inquired the mother.

"I dunno," replied the urchin; "guess he's forgot suthin'."

"We all of us should be ready to make sacraments," said Mrs. Partington solemnly as she heard that a neighbor's son had been drafted, "if I had a hundred sons I should be willing that every one of 'em should be exempt." What a patriotic glow her cheek assumed! How her eyes flashed through her glasses! What a meaning there was in her tone! But Ike, who knew the dictionary signification of the word "exempt," laughed.

A CATHOLIC ORGAN ON SLAVERY.—The Catholic Telegraph, of Cincinnati, edited by Rev. Edward Purcell, brother of Archbishop Purcell, published an editorial in its issue of August 26th, in which the cowardice of those people who are frightened by the term "abolitionist" is exhibited in the most scathing language. The Telegraph, speaking of slavery, says:

We never raised a hand against it; no word of any Catholic editor assailed it so long as it would be unjust and illegal to do so; but now that it is dead—dead by the acts of its admirers—we will not consent to see its body festering on the highways. Let it be buried out of sight forever. Let it rest, with all its horrors, in the grave; let its memory fade from the recollection of men. It was an outrage against humanity, such as the history of no other people could exhibit. There was something manly in the old custom of reducing to slavery him whose sword had been beaten down by a stronger arm on the battle field; there was a show of justice in reducing to bondage the debtor who could not pay his creditor; but for American slavery there was no excuse! It was a monstrous crime, from the seizure of the African in his own land to his death, when his body was wasted by toil rather than disease, to uphold the luxury of a master! Well, it has fallen, and we are called abolitionists, because we refuse to consent to its resurrection. We are proud of being called so under circumstances so creditable to the mind and heart. May we ever deserve the name. We will bear its stigma joyfully through life, and carry it into eternity with honor. We struggle in a holy cause—the cause of religion and the human race.

A HARD ONE ON NEW JERSEY.—On a terrible stormy night in December, a United States vessel was wrecked off the coast of Jersey, and every person save one went down with the doomed craft. This one survivor (a Western gentleman) seized a floating spar, and was washed toward the shore, while the innumerable kind-hearted fools of the Camden and Amboy railroad clustered on the beach with ropes and boats. Slowly but surely the unhappy mariner drifted to land, and as he exhaustedly caught the rope that was thrown to him, the kindly natives uttered an encouraging cheer—"You are saved," they shouted; "you are saved—and must show he conductor your ticket." With the boiling surf about him, and a floating straw tickling his nose, the drowning stranger suddenly resisted the efforts to haul him ashore. "Stop!" said he, in a faint tone. "Tell me where I am! What country is this?" And they answered:—"New Jersey." Scarcely had the name been uttered, when the wretched stranger let go the rope, ejaculating, as he did so, "I guess I'll float a little further!" He was never seen again!—N. Y. Mercury.

WHAT AN EDUCATED MAN OUGHT TO KNOW.—An educated man ought to know these things: First—Where he is; that is to say, what sort of a world he has got into; how large it is; what sort of creatures inhabit it, and how; what it is made of, and what may be made of it. Secondly—where he is going; that is to say, what chances or reports there are of any other world besides this; what seems to be the nature of that other world. Thirdly—What he had best to do under the circumstances; that is to say, what kind of faculties he possesses; what are the present state and wants of mankind; what is his place in society, and what are the readiest means in his power of attaining happiness and diffusing it. The man who knows these things, and who has his will so subdued in the learning of them, that he is ready to do what he knows he ought, is an educated man; and the man who knows them not is uneducated, though he could talk all the tongues of Babel.—Ruskin.

GENTLE BUT IMPRESSIVE.—A young man, rather verdant, and very sentimental, while making himself interesting to a young lady, the other evening, by quoting from the poets, to the other choice and rare extracts, he added, "There is no place like home."

"Do you really think so?" said the young lady.

"Oh yes," was the reply.

"Then," said calico, "why don't you stay there?"

PROVIDENCE SCHOOL!

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

CONDUCTED BY

The Sisters of Charity,

VANCOUVER, W. T.

THIS INSTITUTION, which was commenced in the year 1856, is delightfully situated at Vancouver, on the north bank of the Columbia river. The beauty of the surrounding scenery, and the salubrity of the place, cannot be surpassed.

The course of studies embraces the various branches of a solid and useful education, and a particular attention is given to form the pupils to household duties and plain and fancy needle-work.

Parents may rest satisfied that every care will be paid to the comfort of the young ladies placed in this Institution, whilst no pains will be spared to nourish in them those principles of virtue which alone can render education profitable.

No undue influence will be exercised over the religious opinions of the pupils; however, for the maintenance of good order, all are required to conform to the external discipline of the house.

Terms for Boarders:

For Board and Tuition, per quarter of 11 weeks	$40 00
" Washing	10 00
" Music and use of Instrument	17 00
" French	6 00
" Board during vacation	25 00
" Washing " "	8 00

Books, stationery, beds and bedding will form extra charges.

Each pupil must be provided with a white muslin, a sky blue de laine, and a black de laine dress, made high in the neck, with long sleeves closing at the wrist, and a cape of the same material. Also, with six changes, six towels and sufficient number of pairs of shoes.

There is an annual vacation of six weeks, commencing with the first week of July, and ending with the third week of August. No other absence is allowed during the year, except in case of serious illness.

No pupil is admitted for less than a quarter and no deduction can be made for time lost or quarter uncompleted, unless in the case above mentioned.

Pupils can enter at any period of the year, and are charged from the day of their admission into the Institution.

Visits are confined to Thursdays, and can only be made by parents, guardians, or persons authorized by the parents of pupils.

All correspondence is subject to the inspection of the Superioress.

Terms for Day Scholars:

Per quarter of eleven weeks	$6 00
Music and use of Instrument	17 00

HELMBOLD'S

Genuine Preparation.

'HIGHLY CONCENTRATED'

Compound Fluid

EXTRACT BUCHU,

A POSITIVE AND SPECIFIC REMEDY

FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL

AND

DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the ABSORBENTS into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCEROUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse.

ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,
Loss of Memory,
Weak Nerves,
Horror of Disease,
Dimness of Vision,
Universal Lassitude of the Hot Hands,
Dryness of the Skin,

Loss of Power,
Difficulty of Breathing,
Trembling,
Wakefulness,
Pain in the Back,
Muscular System,
Flushing of the Body,
Eruptions on the Face,

Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows

Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,

IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY EXPIRE.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases."

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,"

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, BUT NONE WILL CONFESS

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion that

THE CONSTITUTION,

once affected by Organic Weakness,

Requires the Aid of Medicine,

to strengthen and invigorate the system, which invariably does.

A Trial will Convince the most Skeptical.

FEMALES! FEMALES!! FEMALES!!

OLD OR YOUNG,

Single, Married, or contemplating Marriage

IN MANY AFFECTIONS PECULIAR TO FEMALES, the Extract of Buchu is unequalled by any other remedy as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous state of the Uterus, Leucorrhea or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the Sex, whether arising from Indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE!

See symptoms above.

No Family should be without it.

TAKE NO MORE BALSAM, MERCURY, OR UNPLEASANT MEDICINE FOR UNPLEASANT AND DANGEROUS DISEASES.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

AND

HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH

CURES SECRET DISEASES,

In all their Stages; At Little Expense;
Little or no Change in Diet; No inconvenience,

AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, preventing and curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in the class of Diseases, and expelling all Poisonous, diseased and worn out matter.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS

Who have been the victims of Quacks

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu

For all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating, and

NO MATTER OF HOW LONG STANDING.

Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,

And it is certain to have the desired effect in Diseases for which it is recommended.

Evidence of the most Responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines.

Certificates of Cures

From Eight to Twenty Years standing, with names known to science and fame.

"PHYSICIANS," PLEASE "NOTICE."

We make no "secret" of "Ingredients." HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is composed of Buchu, Cubebs, Juniper Berries, selected with great care by a competent Druggist. Prepared in vacuo, by H. T. HELMBOLD, Practical and Analytical Chemist, and Sole Manufacturer of
